I am for freedom of religion against all mencenous thing about a legal assansory of one self over another; for freedom of the press and against all violations of the Constitution to silence by force and by reason the complaints or encour-ment or unjust of one citizen against another. And I am for encour-ging the proper premises in all its branches, that for raising a true and very against the sacred name of philosophy; for raising the human mind by stories of rare led bloody bones to a dish of its own vision, and to repose implicitly in that of other; to go backwards instead of forwards to conimprove.
I believe that government, religion, morally, and every other enmies were in the highest perfection.
in age of the clearest ignorance that nothing can ever be devised more perfect than what was established by our forefathers.
