

PETERSON HAS 2 WOODEN CRIBS

BOSTON, Ind., Nov. 13.—In accordance with government regulations, John F. Peterson has just completed two large wooden cribs, both containing proper ventilating spaces. An inspection of 45 acres of corn on his farm has been concluded by Elmer Williams and Frank M. Jones of Richmond. By rows this corn has a general average of 80 bushels to the acre. Of 20 acres in wheat the machine measure went 41 bushels to the acre.

O. M. Whitmore, cashier of the Boston bank said Monday that $3,200 had been collected in taxes at the bank in order to save residents the trouble of paying taxes at headquarters. While the wheat crop and the sales of hogs had materially increased the deposits in this bank some 27 percent of the large corn crop to be harvested here would make a larger increase. Boston township, he added, spelled prosperity.

Jesse Druly, who recently sold a deck of hogs at 17 cents to a dealer, told an anecdote, Monday, that showed what delays in shipping, owing to freight congestion, did to the buyer. The car was delayed three days adding $57 to the feed bill. The dealer only realized 16 1/2 cents on the deal. Poultry shippers here make a like complaint.

A. R. Mather, impersonator, lecturer, and mimic, gave a composite playlet, "The Bachelor's Romance" at the first Lyceum entertainment at the High school auditorium, Saturday. There was an appreciative and large audience. The High school students and teachers boosted the sale of tickets.

All the road improvements have been completed, some three miles of graveling has been continued along the routes to the Richmond end.

The Red Cross has aided in the work of obtaining signatures to the food conservation cards. There are few residents who have not signed.

LEWISBURG, O.

Bernice Walters and Esther Lieber were lame over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heeter and little niece Dorothy, were Dayton visitors Saturday and Sunday. Ambert Hillery who is in the United States navy is home on a furlough. Rev. Frank and wife of Middletown were guests of Frank Hoerner and wife Tuesday.

Oliver Cullers, Florence Sweeney, Olive O'Connell, Herman and William Roselius and Jack Purnhagen attended the first number of the lecture course in the auditorium at West Alexandria Saturday. Ormaby Keesling, Urley Karioko and Clarence Gilmer, all of Camp Sherman, spent Saturday here with their parents. The body of Mrs. M. J. House, one mile south of Brookville, was brought here Sunday morning and buried in Roselawn cemetery. Charles Beam and family spent Sunday in Easton. Mrs. Joe Hendrix of Lockington spent Saturday here with her parents, George Cowgill and wife.

BOY SCOUTS HIKE TO SPRINGS ON SUNDAY

Troop Two has organized a basketball team and practices Monday evenings in the Earlham gymnasium. The next regular meeting of the troop will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the council chamber of the city building.

"Pacifists Are Enemies of the Republic," Says Clarence Darrow

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Addressing a large audience in this city, composed chiefly of laboring men, Clarence S. Darrow appealed to all American patriots to unite now for the smashing of the kaiser, careless of the cost or the bloodshed, in order that freemen may have a place they can call their home on this earth.

He reviewed the history of Prussia throughout the war until the United States came in, and declared that President Wilson would have been false to every tradition of the country and humanity had he withstood longer the insolence of Prussia.

"I say, without the slightest hesitation," he said, "that no human being, speaking as a man, could defend the right of Germany to destroy non-combatant ships upon the high seas without offering a chance to save human lives."

Mr. Darrow went after the pacifists with all the invective and sarcasm at his command. Summing up he said:

"All who oppose this war, who seek to confound our friends and hinder united action that alone can bring victory, are working for the most despotic, arbitrary government that the civilized world has known."

After reviewing the history of the war up to the time of America's entrance, Mr. Darrow continued:

"The attack of Germany upon the Lusitania and other ships of commerce was not warfare; it was murder and piracy upon the high seas. What was the duty of the United States?"

"We were then an independent nation of 100,000,000 souls; stronger than at least three times over than Germany; ten times richer than Germany; so far removed from Germany that we did not need to fear it nor any land; and people by a devoted band of men as ever rallied to protect the liberty of the world."

"The Only Way." "We were big enough and strong enough and safe enough to defend ourselves and help protect the people of the world. Had the United States been so craven as to meekly take orders from a foreign government, it would have lost the respect of every nation on the earth. Had our people failed to fight in this great crisis, they would have been so cowardly that they would not have lived. For such a people, so besotted with the love of money, or so fond of luxury and ease, there could have been nothing in store but death."

"And be it said to the honor and glory and idealism of America that she accepted the sage of battle from the German empire and prepared to fight. There is no chance for intelligent people to be mistaken as to our duty and to our right."

"Pacifists and pro-Germans have freely criticized the president of the United States for leading his people into war. It has become any American to criticize the president in this great crisis. The United States never had a greater, wiser, more patriotic president than Woodrow Wilson, and it is for the people of the United States not to condemn or criticize but to support and uphold him in this, the greatest crisis of our nation's life.

U. S. Stand Justified. "We have undertaken this war for no sordid ends—with high ideals, with a deep sense of duty, with a high purpose for justice, without hope of gain, but merely to act with our allies to defend ourselves and to protect the liberties of all the people of the world. And, with our strength, our purpose, and our devotion, a war for these ends, waged by a mighty nation, with our glorious allies, cannot fail."

"Germany's excuses and excusers have been many. We have been told that America was never neutral; from the beginning that we sold munitions to the allies, to use against her. I agree with the pacifists that we never should have sold munitions—we should have given them away! But what right has Germany to complain of the sale of powder and of guns?"

"Germany sold munitions to England to kill the Boers and to the Boers to kill the English. She sold them to America to kill Spaniards and to Spain to kill Americans. She sold them in Mexico to wage war on the United States. She sold them with the greatest impartiality to every warring people on the earth when she did not need them for her own brutal use."

"And when she sold them she was well within her right; for, under the rules of war, any people have as much right to sell munitions as they have to sell food and clothes."

No Excuse for Murder. "The pacifists' excuses for Germany have been many. Their excuse for German submarine warfare is the statement that England was starving Germany, and Germany had the right to fight for her life. Before Germany broke the peace of the world she knew the rules of war; she knew that she had no right to sink ships of commerce and destroy the lives of noncombatants without the chance of escape.

"Starvation gave no excuse. Starvation is a well established means of war. In the days of the rebellion the north blockaded southern ports and starved the south into surrender. In 1871 Germany drew her armies around Paris, denying them the chance to get food. France pleaded for the right to let her women and children go outside the gates and be fed. Germany replied that they should fry in their own fat. Paris was starved and surrendered and in this Germany was well within her rights."

Mr. Darrow then summed up the justification of the other nations allied against Prussian autocracy; refuted statements that our part in the war was inspired by Wall street; outlined the German diplomatic intrigue against the United States and other nations before war was declared. Continuing he said:

As to Terms of Peace. "And as to terms of peace, it is idle to talk of peace until we begin to fight. This is the last argument to confound our friends, to separate allies, to sow discord, where there should be union and strength."

"What terms of peace can we propose today? Shall we say to France today that if Germany stop her submarine warfare with the United States we will desert our allies and do nothing to help France in her high and just demands?"

"The governments of the future will take the authority from the people and from no one else. The people are not always right or always wise, but their voice is the safest and they are the ones who should be heard."

Concluding, Mr. Darrow declared that charges that freedom of speech and press in America were being killed forever were untrue. In the end, he said, the ver fact that we should win a war that the people of all the world might rule themselves would insure greater freedom than ever before.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-like drink which all regret they do not take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.
