Even a banker stopped D-- in the Alexandria Saturday evening and told him how he a number of his banker-acquaintances understand this jobbing-system going on by the district attourney's office, and most sincerely assured D-- of his sympathies and those of many more stranger-friends all through the town,-- and one other highly respectable introduced himself and declared this town to be "headquarters for SNOBBERY, ROBBERY and JOBBERY, -- which is the truest map of the town that anyone can ever make ! My friends tell me today that people talk about it on all sides, and all are on our side, -- and our friends are stronger than ever, - of course. I will try to send a few papers, tho' nothing very well hitched together for telling the story, - but just to give you a glimpse or two,-- There's been so much printed and pictured that it has grown so tedious and tiresome, and I feel unequal to accumulating papers ~~paste~~ and present in any qunatity this time. I will write again when anything really definite shapes itself. Meantime, We are kept so occduplicated with planning ahead for whatever may happen that we haven't tim to worry much, fortunately. Your father is going about in many directions all at once today, I fancy, and hasn't time to think of himself, he is so busy thinking of his affairs - M Much love to you all in some haste-- from R
